A VICTORY FOR SILVER

Hon. J. M. Quinn Reviews the Work of the Great Campaign.

TAMMANY WILL BE LOYAL

The Silver Question Was in the Fight If Not in the Platform—A Storm of Cheers for Bryan and the Chicago Platform.

Hon. J. M. Quinn arrived home yesterday from New York, where he has been the greater part of the past month. Mr. Quinn was in the metropolis during the most interesting part of the recent campaign for the mayoralty of Greater New York and made a number of speeches for the Tammany committee. In conversation with a Standard reporter last evening relative to the campaign, Mr. Quinn said:

"The effect of the result of the election in Greater New York will be to strengthen the democratic party, not only in the East, but throughout the nation. As far as national issues are concerned the election of the democratic candidate was a victory for bimetalism, as it places the machinery of the great metropolis in the hands of men who are bound to support the national democratic ticket and platform in 1900. Those who have labored under the impression that the absence of an endorsement of the Chicago platform in the New York democratic platform removed the silver question from the politics of the city have been very much mistaken. Throughout the entire campaign the silver question was in the minds of the voters. Those who constitute the rank and file of Tammany are ardent advocates of the re-nomination of silver. They are enthusiastic supporters of the Chicago platform and look upon W. J. Bryan as the democratic leader."

"The great Cooper Union meeting, under the auspices of Tammany, a large portrait of Mr. Bryan adorned the wall at the rear of the platform, and upon the banner were the words: 'Our Candidate in 1900—Certainly no man who attended that meeting could feel that the silver cause was forgotten or that Tammany was anything but loyal to democratic principles. The sentiment among the common people who make Tammany the great controlling power in New York is overwhelmingly in favor of bimetalism, and though many of the voters would have preferred an endorsement of the Chicago platform, they voted for Van Wyck, well knowing that democratic success meant increased strength for the cause."

"The representatives of labor in New York are naturally democratic and are intensely interested in the silver question. On numerous occasions men who were working for Van Wyck went out of their way to let me know that they were praying for the defeat of the goldites and would stand loyally and unswervingly by silver in 1900. The friends of Mr. Bryan throughout the nation may rest assured that he is losing no ground in New York city. Nothing short of inexcusable desertion on the part of his solicitors can stem the tide in his favor. At no time in his speech at Cooper Union did Amos J. Cummings receive heartier applause than when he pointed to the portrait of Bryan and recalled the great canvass of 1896. This man, who is also a loyal Tammanyite, said that no speaker aroused enthusiasm save the one who, near the close of the speechmaking, threw off all restraint and delivered a forcible plea for silver and its popular champion."

Relative to the sort of an administration Van Wyck may be expected to give, Mr. Quinn said:

"Mr. Van Wyck is a representative of the best citizenship of New York city. He is a democrat who never bolts. He was one of the faithful in 1896, when Grover Cleveland, Bourke Cockran and myself were driven into the barren fields of apostasy. He is a civil service reformer, who believes in putting democrats on guard. He favors good government and says that he can find within the democratic party of the city the men to give the people just that kind of government. He is public spirited, broad-gauged and patriotic, and his administration hypothesis will have no place. During the entire canvass he was calm, dignified and confident. Notwithstanding the intense character of the contest no opposition paper or campaigner had one word to offer against his character as a man. There is a better feeling in New York than has existed since the trial of republican reform and it is safe to predict that under Mayor Van Wyck the city will have one of the best administrations in its history. Personal liberty will be respected and all just laws intelligently enforced. In short, the election laid the foundation for a splendid democratic victory in 1900."

"Would the result have been different had Henry George lived? No, Van Wyck's plurality would not have been so large, but it would have been decisive. Henry George, Sr., would have polled about 20,000 more votes than were polled by his son, but they would have been drawn nearly equally from Van Wyck and Low. The distinguished single taxer was losing ground. He was the victim of two serious mistakes. His first was the repudiation of the Chicago platform, upon which he accepted the nomination of the united democracy. On the day of his nomination he was very strong with the friends of silver, but when he declared he was not a silver man and would not prosecute his campaign on the Chicago platform he forfeited the support of loyal bimetalists."

"The other fatal mistake was his surrender to the leadership of Tom Johnson of Ohio. Johnson is a corporation man, a professional lobbyist, a man who has made vast sums of money by the manipulation of legislatures and city councils and who is stubbornly opposed to labor unions. The spectacle of Henry George following the lead and accepting the support of Tom Johnson was alone sufficient to defeat him. His death transformed the great political contest into a tragedy and threw a shadow of gloom over what was otherwise the most brilliant conflict in the history of this country. All classes united to do him honor. Republicans forgot the harsh things he had said about them. Democrats forgot that he had been the innocent instrument with which the republicans hoped to divide the democratic vote and all silver men forgot that he had repudiated their cause. The great multitude which attended his funeral, the expressions of respect and esteem which came from the press, the rostrum and the pulpit, and the reverence with which his name was spoken, constituted a tribute seldom bestowed upon a leader whether civil or military."

"One of the most gratifying incidents of the campaign was that in Tammany hall when Richard Croker, who had been humorously attacked by Mr. George, moved that the banquet which had been prepared in honor of Carter Harrison, be adjourned out of respect to the memory of the dead philosopher. Mr. Croker said that he had forgotten the intemperate words of Mr. George and paid a high tribute to his sincerity and honesty of purpose. Tammany's conduct during these sad hours of the campaign commanded the respect of all men. It was in striking contrast to the action of the low campaigners, who made indecent haste toicker for the George support."

"The democratic party came out of the contest with honor as well as victory and there is every reason to believe that the national metropolis will be under democratic rule for many years to come."

ROBBED AT GREGSON.

Three Boys Make a Meal at Gregson's. John Nicol, John Hoagland and Benjamin Salosky, three boys all under 14 years of age and sons of respectable parents, were arrested last evening charged with robbing a couple of bathers at Gregson's Springs. The boys went to Gregson in the morning and were in the general pool with two Anaconda men named Robert Negle and John Olson. The men and boys were in a dressing room, and the boys, leaving the water first, dressed and caught the evening B. A. & P. train to Butte. When the two men came to dress they found they had been robbed and immediately reported the matter to Proprietor Hayes, who telephoned the facts to police headquarters here together with a description of the boys who were suspected, as they were the only persons in the pool besides Negle and Olson.

Detective Murphy went to the train to meet the boys, but the train was in when he reached the station. A short time after, two of the boys appeared at the station and gave themselves up. They told the officers where the other boy lived and Captain Dawson went to his house and arrested him.

Negle and Olson claimed to have lost about $40 between them, but the boys only had about $20 when searched at the police station and claimed that was all they took. The parents of the boys were endeavoring to settle the matter last evening and the case will probably be settled this morning, but the boys are young and naturally vicious, and it is believed the scare will be a good lesson to them. As the money is to be returned the case will probably be dismissed and the boys declare they will never do so again.

SMUGGLING MORPHINE.

Steve Simpson Didn't Get the Dope His Mistress Sent Him.

Steve Simpson is serving a term in the county jail for beating his mistress, a woman named Burns, with a stocking filled with quartz. Mrs. Burns tried to save him at the trial by denying he beat her and threatened to murder her, but he was convicted in spite of the woman. Since he has been in jail the woman has been most attentive to him and has been sending him sweetmeats to her incarcerated lover. She even tried to keep him supplied with morphine, but as that is against the prison rules the jailers would not allow the morphine to be sent. Simpson was desperately in need of the drug and Mrs. Burns was desperately anxious to let him have it, but the unfeeling jailers were in the way, so she had to resort to strategy. Saturday evening she brought the usual installment of food for Simpson, and among the dainty dishes was a stone mug of jelly. The character of the mug at once aroused the suspicion of jailer Pishker, and after the woman had departed he made an examination of its contents and found a good-sized bottle of morphine nicely hidden in the middle of the jelly. He took the drug out and replaced it with a bottle of cornstarch and then sent the food with the jelly to Simpson. If the prisoner discovers the trick on night he was wise enough not to say a word about it.

WILL PAY THE FREIGHT.

The Gentlemen From Cincinnati Understand the Case Now.

It is probable that Peck, Williams & Co. will pay the freight. A representative of the company arrived in Butte Saturday from Cincinnati and during the day was in consultation with members of the board of school trustees and trying to make arrangements to settle the freight charges on the high school heating plant, which has been on board cars in the Northern Pacific depot yards for several weeks.

The company was told in language unmistakable that the school district would not pay the freight or advance another dollar on the plant until it was in position and in good working order in the high school building. When the gentlemen from Cincinnati realized the attitude of the school trustees he began to talk about his company paying the freight and said that work on the plant, which has been on board cars in the Northern Pacific depot yards for several weeks.

OPERATING FREELY.

Police Are Suppressing News of Burglars.

Burglars seem to be operating quite freely in some parts of the city, although the reports of their nefarious operations don't always get into the newspapers, inasmuch as the police seem inclined to suppress news of this sort instead of publishing it.

On Tuesday evening James Goodwin and family of No. 209 Lincoln avenue were visiting at a neighbor's, and during their absence the back door of their house was broken open. The burglars took their time, overhauled the house thoroughly and got away with $150 in cash, a gold watch and a lot of wearing apparel. The burglar was reported to the police. On the same evening another house in the Parrot addition was broken into and some jewelry stolen.

THE CHANGE IS MADE

The New Police Order Went Into Effect Yesterday.

TWO WEEKS' SHIFTS NOW

Officers Catch a Glimpse of the Sun for the First Time in Six Months—No More Complaints of Favoritism Made.

The first change of shifts in the police force to comply with the resolution passed by the city council two weeks ago, providing for alternating the men on the night and day shifts, occurred yesterday. At the time of changing shifts at 6 o'clock in the morning, the night men went off duty, and the old day men went on until noon at which time, half of the men who had been doing night duty relieved them, and at 6 o'clock in the evening the former day men again went on duty, thus effecting the change and re-instituting the old programme, which was in vogue before Chief Mulholland decided to try the continuous shift plan. Among the men who will now be on the day shift are some who have worked night duty for six months. To them, the change, affording them an opportunity to be up for at least a few days in time to see the sun, was a welcome one. The shifts will change twice a week, the places of half the night men, thus giving each officer two weeks of day service out of six.

Squad No. 2, the newest day shift, is composed of these officers: James James, George Wilson, Peter Teague, J. W. Collins, J. G. Matthews, B. McClellan, D. H. Hastings, R. H. Peter, John J. Dougherty, D. Sheehy, P. D. Fogarty and E. B. Everts.

The men in squads Nos. 1 and 2, constituting the night shift, are: James Lawson, James Leyden, P. J. Lyle, D. M. Lowrey, R. T. Connolly, W. F. McGrath, Eugene Shea, D. D. Sullivan, Frank Byrne, Thomas Walsh, Mike McGinnis, John W. Neville, W. J. Ingraham, James J. Murphy, J. H. Handlin, J. H. Stenborn, John Radmichovich, John Gray, J. Chelmin, A. Rocheleau, H. W. Niles, John J. Barry and John Nicol.

Matters of the force are now running very smoothly, much more so for some time prior to the action of the council in re-establishing the plan of alternating shifts. No more complaints of favoritism are heard, which were frequent while the continuous shift plan was in force and the men seem to be all contented. Then, too, better service is obtained from the men, for two reasons being that there is now no occasion for the feeling which prompted the officer to shirk, and the other is the swift dismissal of officers Osterman and Wren for dereliction of duty, which has had a decidedly stimulating effect among the men.

The heads of the department would be entirely satisfied with the present organization of the force if they could induce the council to grant them two or three more men. "With the present number of men some of the outside districts cannot be as well policed as is desirable," said Captain Dawson yesterday. "But if we had three or four more men who could police the city to the satisfaction of everyone. For instance, there is but one man in the territory lying west of Washington and north of Park street, only one man in the Parrot addition, and there are other beats that are too large for one man to cover properly."

The people of the Parrot addition have come to the same conclusion with regard to the necessity of another officer on that beat, or rather a division of the beat between two men and will petition the city council for another officer for that district. It is understood the petition will be sent to the council at its next meeting.

The officers to take the place of ex-officers Osterman and Wren, discharged, have not yet been selected, but it is expected they will be named this week. Special Officer John Barry and Nick Murphy are serving temporarily, and it is said have a good show of getting the appointments.

The force, or the night portion of it, provided Saturday night with dark lanterns, something that has been needed for a long time, but they were not the latest make of police lantern, the kind ordered by Chief Mulholland, and it is thought they will be returned.

"THE HOLY CITY."

Part Two of the Choral Society Services Delight a Large Audience.

Part second of the Choral Society service, "The Holy City," part first of which was given a week ago, was sung at St. John's Episcopal church last evening. The church was filled to its utmost capacity, people standing in the aisle and out into the lobby. The service commenced immediately following the evening service. The singers were all in good voice and part two of the pretty service was even more delightful than was part one, which was so highly praised by all who heard it. The programme was carried out as published in yesterday morning's Standard.

The last sad rites were performed yesterday over the remains of four residents of Butte who had passed away during the previous week. Mrs. Minnie Newbury, wife of Charles Newbury, of No. 70 West Platinum street, was buried from St. Patrick's church; Minnie Kelly, formerly a variety actress at the Casino, from St. Mary's undertaking rooms; Benjamin Hooper of Centerville, from the family residence at No. 424 East Mullin street; and Mrs. Jane Polaris, formerly Mrs. West Gagnon, from the M. E. church South.

HELD UP AND ROBBED.

Both the Robber and the Robbed Lodged in Jail.

James Surpin came in from Silver Bow Sunday yesterday and reported to Chief of Police Mulholland that he had been held up at Silver Bow the night before by two men and robbed of about $5. He knew the names of the men, which he furnished and gave an accurate description of them. In a little while the police had arrested one of the men, who confessed to being implicated. It appears that Levy was drunk and was in the company of the two men, when at a convenient time they decided to relieve him of his money, which they did by one of them throwing his arms around Levy and holding him while the other went through his pockets.

The man arrested gave the name of George Mason. He did not deny having a hand in the affair, but said he and his partner had taken the money away from Levy to keep it because he was drunk. Mason was taken to the county jail and locked up for highway robbery.

Surpin yesterday indicated that he proposed to drop the case and was accordingly arrested and held in jail to prevent him in getting away until the county attorney can look into the case.

All members of Butte lodge No. 1 A. O. U. W., are requested to meet at their hall Tuesday at 1 o'clock to attend the funeral of our late brother, John Gable. D. T. Lewis, Master Workman.

THE REPORT IS FALSE.

Many of the Butte Mines Have Had Skips Put In.

The Engineering and Mining Journal recently contained an article, charging that not more than 20 of the cages in the Butte district have been enclosed under the regulations provided last winter by the Montana legislature. Mine Inspector Byrne, in an interview in Saturday's Helena Independent, pronounces this report false. Some of the mines are arranging to put in skips and where such is the case, they have not been pressed to make the required changes in the cages. A great many of the mines have put in the safety appliances.

WORK WAS STOPPED.

The Street Department Were Making Improvements.

The street department has been using some of the scrapings from Main street to fill in around the new high school building, and Superintendent Hendricks and several members of the board of trustees made a vigorous kick against it, claiming that the stuff was nothing but filth and that it was disease-breeding. They made a complaint to the mayor and the work was stopped.

In Police Court.

In the police court Saturday Mary Marchand who was fined $2 a few days ago and was serving out her time, was allowed to pay $10 for the balance of her sentence. Mike Gagan was fined $10 for disturbance and committed. John Berry, $10 for drunkenness, committed; Matt Matson, $25 for disturbance; P. Smith, $5 for drunkenness; J. DeBalla, arrested for peddling rotten eggs, pleaded not guilty and will be tried Tuesday.
